Milwaukee's Welcome.

MILWAUKEE, October 5.—Upon this day Milwaukee has been only once honored by the presence or guest of a president of the United States. Nine years ago President Hayes was received in this city on occasion of the dedication of the Soldiers' Home. Between the visit of Mr. Hayes and that of President Cleveland lies a period of time which has been marked by the most wonderful growth and development in the history of Milwaukee. Mr. Hayes was then received by a city of 115,000 people. Mr. Cleveland finds a city of 250,000 people. Mr. Hayes was received by a city which had not yet begun to realize the possibilities of its future. Mr. Cleveland finds a city which has already realized the most sanguine expectations of its citizens

A. A. McGONAGLE, Chairman.

FRANK W. HOWBERT, County.

A few of Senator Hiscock's friends in New York are urging him to become a presidential candidate. They state that if New York state republicans this fall are rewarded with a majority of 150,000 and receiving the nomination. Their zeal, however, in this line is more than likely to prove of no avail as Mr. Hiscock is too much of a politician to make him a popular candidate.

The republican state convention of Nebraska adopted a very low tariff plank in its platform. It is set by experienced men in that state as a result of the high rates of revenue which compel the farmers of the west to pay tribute to the manufacturers of the east. The time for reform is surely approaching, for the people are gradually awakening to the fact, that protection does not protect, and that tariff duties are the most objectionable methods of indirect taxation.

The western tour of President Cleveland has thus far been a most pleasant and successful one. It is to be regretted that his political views have not influenced in the highest degree the cordiality of his reception. Republicans have met with demonstrations of showing respect to the chief magistrate of the nation, which would have done credit to a democratic president. Democratic papers have been unsparing in their denunciations of the republican party in El Paso county, but Colorado democrats, as a rule, are not of that class. Democrats in this state, as a rule, are gentlemen, and will treat a political opponent with courtesy and respect. Democrats in Colorado Springs have shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to this city, was a credit to the democratic party of this city. Democrats in Colorado City have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Pueblo have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Denver have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Leadville have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Aspen have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Gunnison have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Salida have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Canon City have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city. Democrats in Trinidad have also shown that they can be liberal and hospitable to their political opponents, and the reception tendered President Cleveland on his visit to that city, was a credit to the democratic party of that city.
